

AIR FORCE STRATEGIC POLICY FELLOW THE MITCHELL INSTITUTE

MAJ ALEX M. WALLIS is an Air Force Strategic Policy Fellow with The Mitchell Institute of Aerospace Studies, Arlington Virginia.

BACKGROUND: During his career he has held a variety of leadership positions including Chief of Air Battle Management Assignments, Chief of Multi-domain Operations Officer Assignments, Flight Command, Chief of Weapons and Tactics, Mission Planning Cell Chief, Chief of Electronic Support Team, Deputy Chief of Tactics, Chief of Electronic Combat and Electronic Combat Evaluator and Instructor. Prior to his current assignment he was the Chief of Air Battle Manager and Multi-domain Officer Assignments. In this capacity, he managed a portfolio of 1270 Air Battle Managers across three C2 Weapon Systems and 75 130 officers in Air Operation Centers across the CAF. As a Senior Air Battle Manager, his operational flying experience includes missions supporting Operations Enduring Freedom, Combined Defense of the Arabian Gulf and Operation Odyssey Resolve. His deployed efforts helped support the International Security Assistance Force, Gulf State Security Council and PACAF.

ACADEMIC AND PROFESSIONAL TITLES: Major Wallis received his commission through ROTC at the University of Tennessee. He has over 900 combat hours in the E-3B/C.

---